OBJECTIVES

For ages, girls have been facing problems and discrimination in society. People do not consider a girl worthy and a person with capabilities. So, to remove the discrimination and to improve girl's conditions, an initiative was taken by the Ministry of Women and Child Development in 2008 to have and celebrate National Girl Child Day on 24th January every year. The importance of celebrating National Girl Child Day in India is to uplift the girl child. The Girl child day is important as it creates awareness among the citizens. With the same objective, IIM Sirmaur would like to conduct this seminar creating awareness about the rights a girl owns, apprehension about giving girls the opportunities like everyone else, recognising and finding solutions to gender-based biases, promoting awareness about the inequalities that a girl child faces, girl's education, health and nutrition and taking initiative to give a new perspective towards girl child, to decrease discrimination and empower girls in India.
